

Hello, Sid Roth here. Welcome to my world, where it's naturally supernatural. God showed my guest what she would look like fully alive. Are you fully alive? Next.

*Sid Roth has spent over 40 years researching the strange world of the supernatural. Join Sid for this edition of It's Supernatural!

SID: I can't wait to show you a recent video of my guest, Jessi Green. Let's take a look.

JESSI: God showed me a vision of thousands of people being baptized in Huntington Beach and there were so many people being baptized that they had to turn around and baptize the person behind them. Jesus is the only one that can take death and turn it into life and so the question is, are you really living?

[singing]

[inaudible] to be baptized for the redemption of your sins.

JESSI: Rise up and say, let me tell you about the hope that I have in Christ Jesus.

SID: Jessi. What was that?

JESSI: That is revival fire.

SID: You won't settle for anything short. I want to take you to ... They're surprised, all of you. I want to take you to the end of Jessi Green.

JESSI: Yeah, back in 2009, I was living in New York City, I was working in the nightclub industry, dating a multi-millionaire, traveling internationally and just going after the things in the world. I had depression, anxiety, suicidal thoughts, and in a moment of honesty, wanting to take my life. I screamed out to God in my Manhattan bedroom and I just-

SID: But wait, wait, you had everything. Look, if you watch television and see movies, she had everything that makes you happy, but you weren't happy.

JESSI: No. And on the surface I looked like I was, I had celebrity friends, Louis Vuitton luggage, I had it all and yet, I would just come home, just crying and taking medication to just stop my crazy thoughts. I would see demonic forces in my room. I was so tormented. So I didn't know what to do. I was crying one night and screaming out and I just said, "God, if you're real, you have to take this pain away." Then all of a sudden, all of New York City went silent and I was living in Midtown Manhattan, it's never silent there. The peace of God fills my room and all of a sudden, I couldn't cry. I tried to cry and I couldn't cry. I could feel that God was in my room and actually, I was a little bit scared.

I put the covers over my head and I knew that God was there. I knew that He was real and I wanted to follow Him. I just said to God, I said, "If I can have a relationship with you, I will do anything to follow you. I'll give up everything to know you."

SID: Did you hear that? God is real. When I had my encounter with God. I went all the way with God. There was no compromise. It wasn't 10% I'm going with you God, it was 100%. What happened with you?

JESSI: I did what any normal Christian would do. I quit my job, I sold everything that I owned and I went to an outdoor store with five inch stilettos on and I said, "I need a backpack. I'm going to travel the world as a missionary." They were like, "Are you sure? You don't look like the outdoorsy type?" I went around the world for a year living in Third World countries and I just wanted the real Jesus. I just wanted to know him, if he was real.

SID: Then January, 2016 was a red letter day for you.

JESSI: My husband and I were full-time ministers in New York City. At that point, God had taken us on such a long journey. I just knew there was more, there's always more with God, right?

SID: Of course.

JESSI: So I knew there was more and I was praying for revival in New York and we were praying and fasting. As I prayed, God really showed me a vision, His vision. God asked me, he said, "Jessi, what would you look like fully alive?" Honestly, I didn't know. So I said to God, "I'm not sure, you know." And then all of a sudden I started to see a vision, and in this vision I was on the beach. I wasn't in New York anymore. There were people being saved. I was preaching outside and I just saw thousands of people being baptized in Huntington Beach in the vision and it ignited something in me.

I just knew that I wanted in. So it was really an invitation from God. I didn't even know what revival was or revivalist. I'm looking all of this up on Google. I just heard God say that He was inviting me to lead revival. So, I was actually pregnant with our first-born David. It was actually the worst time ever to quit our jobs, lose our insurance. We took all of the money we had to buy a car and we loaded it up with a few of our belongings. We didn't know anyone in California and we just started to share the gospel on the beach and hold on to that vision.

SID: So I guess all of a sudden, a thousand people gathered immediately and God came through for you?

JESSI: I wish that was the ... Actually, I don't wish that was the story because I had to go through a process of stepping out in faith on that vision. It was about four years.

SID: Four years?

JESSI: Four years....

SID: That's a long time.

JESSI: I would go to Huntington Beach and I would stand on these little cement benches. I would think, "This is the moment. This is the moment, the vision's going to come to pass." I'd go out there, open up my Bible and start preaching. Not one person would stop. I would look at my husband and say, "I think I heard from God wrong. This doesn't look anything like revival."

SID: Four years go by of preaching to the seagulls. That's it. Four years, but then ... You could have given up easy.

JESSI: I will be honest with you, I wanted to give up several times. Honestly, that's why it makes me emotional, it's why I love the presence of God, because every time I wanted to quit and I would just go into the prayer room and pray. God would just say, "I'm not a liar. Don't quit. Don't quit. There's so much more, there's so much more I have for you." So I would just hold onto those promises.

Then in 2019, and it was the best thing ever. In just a normal day of prayer, God said to me, "Jessi Green, green light, the harvest begins summer 2020."

SID: You know, everything in God is timing. Everything is timing. Don't you dare give up. So the green light, then what?

JESSI: So He said that this next revival would come through the equipping of the saints and we needed to prepare nets. So, I started calling every church in Orange County, inviting them over for dinner. I'm calling them all. I'm this little blonde girl, I'm like, "Come over. I have to tell you this vision."

SID: Now did that work out with COVID going on simultaneously?

JESSI: So not so well, a lot of people thought we were very crazy. Honestly, we got a lot of backlash and then everything in California was being absolutely shut down. I just kept thinking, "God, are you postponing this?" He just kept saying, "Jessi ... " and I read John 21. He said, "Look at the men on the beach. I want you to throw the net on the other side." I believe that that was an invitation to innovate with God and stop doing things just the same old way it's been done.

SID: Wow. The presence of God is so strong right now. So, you went to the beach and tell me what happened.

JESSI: I went to the beach, shaking. I was so afraid that I would be the only person there. That Wednesday—

SID: I think that feeling. I used to have big meetings for unsaved Jewish people throughout the United States. I thought I'd be the only one there, a thousand people would show up.

JESSI: Well, my experience was no one showing up ever. So, I had been casting this vision all around Orange County, that this was going to be a harvest. I went and everything was locked down. We went anyway and I said, "I'm just supposed to be there and I'm going to preach the gospel, even if it's to the seagulls." There was hundreds of people there, I preached just that Jesus was the Messiah, that he died and that he rose again, and he wanted to give people the Holy Spirit and people ran into the ocean to be baptized." Each week, thousands and thousands of people flew in from all around the country to come and be baptized.

SID: Describe what you were seeing before your eyes.

JESSI: Honestly, it's hard to even describe. I feel like that video is even just a glimmer. I felt like I was transported into the Bible. There were moments where the crowds were so large, they couldn't hear me on the megaphone. At one point, the Holy Spirit said, "Jessi, leave the front, walk into the crowd." I was stepping over towels, stepping over people, screaming into this crowded circle, just the gospel and people were just lifting up their hands, screaming out to God. Police trucks were surrounding us saying, "You must stop. This is illegal assembly. You must stop."

SID: It's California, what do you expect?

JESSI: And one older lady in the end of the crowd ... I was like, "What do we do? There's seven cop cars around us." She screams, "We will not be silent," and everyone ran into the ocean to be baptized.

SID: What are they going to do, go into the ocean to arrest you?

JESSI: It'd be probably very hard.

SID: Even young kids were being baptized with their parents.

JESSI: Yeah, there was a young boy named Matthew. He was eight years old and he grabbed me by the hands and he said, "Jessi, I need Jesus. I need to get forgiveness of my sins." I'm thinking, "What kind of sins does this eight year old boy have?" All of a sudden he goes ... We baptized him. His parents start confessing of living a life of sin. I grabbed Matthew by the hand and I go, "Matthew, do you want to baptize your parents with me?" He's crying, his parents are crying and I grabbed Matthew's hand and we put them on his parents and they go into the water and they come out and the whole family just circles one another and they just start worshipping God. I thought, "I would do this a thousand times for this one family." That just kept happening over and over and over again.

SID: But guess what? You're not even going to believe this, six months this is going on, over and over and over again. The government is getting upset and upset and upset again because she got a mask and this beekeepers uniform. Anyway, but six months later, Jessi hears a word from God. What did He tell you?

JESSI: I started to wonder ... We actually stopped the beach revivals for a little while. We felt like God was inviting us in again to something deeper. My husband kept saying, "Jessi, this isn't 10 weeks, six months, even six years of revival." He goes, "This is the revival of all revivals." A lot of generals of the faith kept saying, "There's so much more. There's so much more." So we actually paused to press into what God was doing. I kept thinking, "God was that it? Was that all that you had?" In a hour-long vision, God woke me up in the middle of the night and—

SID: I'll tell you what, hold that thought. Hundreds of visions have come to pass that Jessi's been shown. Want to find out what God showed her, what happened to the world in the next 10 years? I mean, hundreds have come to pass. Let's see what God shows for the next 10 years. Be right back.

SID: Thousands coming out to the beach in California, getting saved, baptized, restored in every arena of their life, government going crazy. But Jessi, you had that vision that you hung on to come to pass, but then God gave you a series of visions for the next 10 years throughout the world. They are so exciting. Can you just briefly tell us a little bit about them?

JESSI: Yes, absolutely. So there were seven waves that were approaching the shore in the vision. As each wave was hitting the shore, something was being ignited across the nations. The first wave, I believe we've already seen and it's that opportunity to be all in or all out, but there really was this line being drawn in the sand. I think 2020 really was the very beginning of that. The second wave was this resurrection of the unborn, meaning that through the voices of women that have had abortions, there would be this [re]surge of holiness that would spread throughout the nations.

The third wave was very crazy. There was crazy deliverance. It was almost like a prophetic showdown was taking place, just like what we see with Elijah.

Then the fourth wave was this deep national repentance. I'm talking in churches, in governments, in entertainment. I think we're about to see people we never would imagine crying out to God and repenting.

Then the fifth wave was a cleaning up of house. That house is the church. I believe that the fifth wave is when false prophecy is going to be exposed on a mass scale, which then leads into that sixth wave, which is the exposing of all idols. I'm not just talking about idols that we know about, statues. I'm talking about idols in the heart, idols in the hearts of believers, where we've allowed things to be a part of our church that is never meant to be there.

Then the last wave, this one is the most significant, and I think this is the most exciting one. It's the recognition of Jesus as Lord, Jesus our Messiah, one nation under God.

SID: What about someone that missed being all in at that first wave or all out? That missed it? I believe that's why God had you write your book because I am told by our readers, it's like the presence of God jumps off your book and causes them to want to be all in. You believe everyone that wants to be a fire starter can be.

JESSI: Absolutely. Actually in the middle of all of these baptisms, in the middle of revival, God actually asked me to write this book in the midst of it all. I was like, "Lord, I don't have time to write a book right now. I have three babies and all of this happening." I was right now preparing a tent revival while writing this in the car on the way over, because what's so important is this survival is not in one city. It's not with one charismatic leader. This is an opportunity for everyone that calls himself a believer to be ignited and ignite revival in their own cities.

SID: Tell me that vision of the fire.

JESSI: Yeah. So we did a tent revival in December. We saw again, just mass salvations, and baptisms, deliverances, healings. Then we stopped again, this is a pattern the Lord keeps showing us. It's like this revival has an ebb and flow, like rhythm to it. We went away to pray and fast for what was next. As we were driving down the coastline of California, I was taken into a vision and I saw the hills ignite in fire. California has actually been having a lot of wildfires in the natural, which I believe is a prophetic sign of what we're experiencing. So I saw this fire and all of a sudden in the vision, I jumped out of the car, I ran into the fire, something was drawing me in and there were angels going in and out of the fire, they were burning.

As I went into the fire, Sid, every lie, every unforgiveness, every fear, every insecurity was being burned off of me. All of the witchcraft that had come against us in this season was just burning right off, even all the things that I thought I wanted in this world, even as a Christian, all of those desires were just being burned off as I went into the fire. All of a sudden I realized, Jesus is the fire. The closer that I got to Jesus, the more I just wanted to go further and further in.

Then there were camps outside of the fire and people were telling stories about the fire and they were talking about what it was like to be in the fire. I could feel the restlessness of the people around the camp, and they were saying, "Well, we want to go in. We want to go in ourselves." But something came over me, Sid. In this vision, I ran up to this woman and I had charcoal all over my hands, they were totally burned. I knelt down in front of this woman and the spirit of God came over me and I grabbed her and I said, "No, no, don't settle. Come with me. Come with me. You're meant to be in the fire yourself." I grabbed her and I dragged her into the fire with me so that she could experience the fire for herself.

I think this season, Sid, this opportunity, it's not just to hear stories. I love supernatural stories, but it's time to live supernatural stories, every single one of us.

SID: You are being called front and center, all hands on deck. Let's start with this prayer. Repeat out loud, dear Jesus, I've made many mistakes, for which I'm so sorry. Jesus, I believe you died for my mistakes. And because of your blood, my sins are not only forgiven. You remember them no more. Jesus come and live inside of me. Be my savior and be Lord over all of my life. Amen. Pray, Jessi.

JESSI: Jeremiah says that if you seek God, you will find him. I believe that right now, you're getting an invitation, not just for a mundane, lukewarm religion, but to be ignited with real life, to live a Christianity that's worth dying for. So right now, I just pray that you would be ignited with the Holy Spirit, says that you will be baptized by the spirit and with fire. So right now, wherever you are, I pray that you would feel fire right now, wherever you are. In the top of your head, through your hands, that you would feel the tangible presence of God, just like I felt in my apartment. It changed the trajectory of my entire life. I believe right now, your entire life is about to change because once you know him, nothing else will satisfy except Jesus the Messiah, Jesus alone. You'll become addicted for just Jesus. All that he is. I pray that every single distraction, every entanglement of this world would be broken off of you right now in the name of Jesus and you will not settle for sitting in a row, but you will burn. You'll burn, you'll burn, you will burn and you will not be able to be contained. Rivers of living water will saturate you from the top of your head to the bottom of your feet. If not now, then when? I declare this over you right now in the name of Jesus.

SID: And that prayer was for you.
