

Hello, Sid Roth here. Welcome to my world where it's naturally supernatural. God told my guest, "I'm too big to fit into your head." God has new ideas, new thoughts that you've never even thought of before, new assignments for you, for you, because of the golden global sunflower glory that is being poured out on planet earth, next.

*Sid Roth has spent over 40 years researching the strange world of the supernatural. Join Sid for this edition of It's Supernatural!

SID: Miracles erupt when my guest welcomes one of her best friends. His name is the Holy Spirit. Would you welcome the Holy Spirit right now?

CINDY: Yes. Holy Spirit, we welcome you. We say you are welcome in this place. Do whatever you want to do and we just thank Jesus for being here.

SID: I don't know if you caught that. She said to the Holy Spirit, "Do whatever you want to do." I think he's just waiting to be free, what do you think?

CINDY: I think so.

SID: Well, one of your favorite scriptures is Habakkuk chapter 1, verse 5. What does that say?

CINDY: It says, "Look among the nations. I'm going to do something in your day that even if I told you, you wouldn't believe it."

SID: All right, I'm going to demonstrate that right now. You were in India. Now I have heard the most amazing miracles, probably more than any man on earth, this I never heard of before, Cindy. Never. Let's stretch him.

CINDY: Okay. When we were in India, we happened to run into a woman who had been born again, supernaturally. Her husband was a satanist and her father was a Hindu priest and she just got born again probably through a dream, but when she did get born again and received Jesus, she also received the gift of faith. And when that's a gift of faith, nothing is impossible.

CINDY: We had gone for dinner at her house and when someone dies in India, they have to cremate them right away because of disease. She had told us that they went to cremate one person in the village and she ran out and said, "Wait, don't burn them up yet. They're easier to raise from the dead when they're not in ashes."

SID: Did you get that? Easier. But that is wild, Cindy—

CINDY: That's-

SID: But you know what? Why not?

CINDY: Why not?

SID: God says, "Nothing is impossible-"

CINDY: That's right.

SID: "For me." So that's included. Nothing is impossible for God. Cindy, you were a heathen, a nonbeliever. Somehow you wandered in a church and someone invited you to a Andre Crouch concert. Why would you even go to a concert like that?

CINDY: Well, I didn't know it was a concert. I thought it was a Chinese restaurant, so I wasn't sure what was happening. I went to this place and I kept circling around and around, Will Rogers Auditorium in Fort Worth, Texas and then I saw the marquee that said "Andre Crouch in concert tonight." The power of God was so strong. I honestly didn't know if I believed in God, but I felt the difference. I felt that God was there.

CINDY: Then he said a statement. He said, "If you have questions in the corners of your mind or places of discouragement and peace you can't find, reach out and touch the Lord because He's walking up and down these aisles," and that's exactly what I did.

SID: Huh.

CINDY: I literally reached out. When I did, I felt the power and the presence of God. I knew He was there, I felt like my lungs opened up, I felt like this fog cleared up over my mind, I thought there was 500 pounds that went off of my back. I thought, "I'm new. I'm completely, I'm brand new. I feel different than when I came in here."

SID: In 1992, you and your husband started something called PUSH. What's PUSH?

CINDY: We were in a real dry season. It seemed like spiritually we'd pastored for a number of years and we were just in a very dry season and we just thought, "We've got to have more," you know? At that time my husband had been praying and he said to God, "People don't like the church," and God spoke back to Him and said, "They've never seen the church."

SID: Hm.

CINDY: Then He said, "They don't like Christianity," and He said, "They don't like powerless Christianity." We started this thing called PUSH that was pray until something happens.

SID: I like that.

CINDY: Yes. And that's exactly what we did. It was interesting. We started with around 10 people in a very small town and it dwindled down to about four.

SID: So you had what's called a membership drive. You drove them out.

CINDY: Yes. A Gideon revival, right? It was an Exodus and it only took four of us really to begin to pray. We prayed so specifically and we asked God to just show up, just do, take over.

All the sudden, really, from one Sunday to the next, probably within a three-month span, our services went from dull, boring, everyone sitting in the same seat every Sunday, whatever, to everyone was on the floor. Everyone was laughing. People were getting all kinds of revelation. The prophetic began to kick in, the Holy Spirit was filling our church with His presence. People were coming from the city, now we're in a small town, so in a small town, people know what you do, right?

SID: Of course.

CINDY: We even knew what our kids did before they got home because somebody'd heard about it. But when this began to break out people begin to get healed of everything. These are people that were heavily addicted to meth, they were meth dealers and they were creating meth in their homes. They heard about it, they came in, they got completely healed. We had a woman who was very strung out on drugs and she pulled to the parking lot.

CINDY: It was very interesting. I'd had a dream the night before and in the dream, I was driving a Ford Explorer, which I didn't have. I didn't have a Ford Explorer so I knew it had symbology. I was passing waterways and I was watching fish jump in these waterways. I had a fishing pole in my Ford Explorer in my dream. I pulled over to the side and I thought, "I'm going to put my line in the water and see if I can catch a fish." When I put my line in, I pulled up a huge bottom fish.

CINDY: While I was telling this to my husband, a woman, literally in that moment, pulled in, in real life and to the parking lot and she said, "I've hit bottom."

SID: That was your bottom fish.

CINDY: That was my bottom fish.

CINDY: She said, "I've been clean and sober for about a week and I want to know if anything's here for me." She was connected to several other people in the town. Her brother was actually diagnosed with liver disease from drinking. He came in, got healed, completely healed, became our drummer.

SID: Hm.

CINDY: Her mother owned a bar in the town and she didn't believe in God or didn't know anything. She said, "I can't deny the change in my kids." So she came in and she said, "I want to be filled with renewal," that's what she said. She didn't know the language. We put our hands on her. She had leukemia, she had diabetes, so she was very ill, and she said, "I want to be prayed for," and we got behind her and prayed, our hands heated up, and she said, "I'm on fire." When we looked around, her glasses were steamed up, and she went back to the doctor and the doctor said, "I don't know what happened to you, but you don't need me anymore."

CINDY: She said, "Do you mean I'm healed?"

CINDY: He said, "I can't say that," they always say that. "I can't say that." Then she began to be the woman at the well, so when people would come in from logging all day and they would begin to sit down at her bar before they got drunk, she had her daughter who had pulled into our parking lot, put them in her car and bring them to the church.

SID: Boy, it was good for your business, but it wasn't good for her business.

CINDY: She didn't care at that time. She was so excited about what had happened and how many wonderful things and restoration and healing and wholeness was coming to her family.

SID: But it wasn't just them.

CINDY: No.

SID: This went on for two and a half years.

CINDY: Yes.

SID: They saw everything of God happened in that church. You make a statement. You say, "We are living in a post-Christian era." What do you mean by that?

CINDY: Well, in the last few years, I begin to notice that more and more and more people, we're not church-friendly. People aren't God-friendly. They don't want to hear about God. They've been hurt in church or they don't believe He's there, just like I was.

SID: Or the counterculture.

CINDY: The counterculture culture.

SID: Cancel culture.

CINDY: Cancel culture.

SID: And woke culture.

CINDY: And woke culture. They're being fed lies. They're being fed things that aren't true. So they've walled us up, us meaning those of us who want to reach them and tell them about Jesus and the good news of God. You really have to earn the right to talk to people anymore.

CINDY: So the way that we do that is either dream interpretation because everyone's dreaming and that seems to get us in the door, or we just begin to say, "I see something about you. Would you mind if I tell you what I see?" We give them a word of knowledge, but we use language that would not wall them up. We use language that's new. It's very fun actually. We've been interpreting dreams for a number of years and I think just through practice and through just going out and our main goal is to get out on the streets and find out what people that don't go to church are dreaming because God's talking to them.

SID: And God told you He's giving people new strategies—

CINDY: Yes.

SID: New ideas.

CINDY: Yes.

SID: Talk on that.

CINDY: He's giving us new bold strategies to be able to reach people who would never listen. He's teaching us language that we need in order for us to communicate with them. It's not Christianese, it doesn't have anything to do because they don't understand that language so we just need to paraphrase it. We need to bring it into their realm.

SID: Give me one example.

CINDY: Jeremiah 29:11. "There are thoughts about you from the Creator that are not for your destruction, but to give you a destiny, to give you a future, to give you something, to hold onto, something to grasp onto."

SID: What happened at the Burning Man Festivals? What happened at the pornographic conventions? Yes, you heard me right. Adult pornographic conventions. It's going to amaze you. This woman goes to them. Be right back.

SID: Cindy, how's this work? How does work that you know the rest of someone's dream? Just tell me how this started.

CINDY: It started about three years ago, actually. I just would see someone, we'd be on the street. I do a lot of street ministry. I like to go out and see what the world is dreaming. I would notice someone, they would be highlighted or they would look very, stand out, and I'd walk up to them and while I'm walking up to them, I could hear that they'd a dream and basically the context of the dream. But as they started telling me their dream, I would dream it with them and I could finish the rest of their dream.

SID: But the thing that amazes me is you started going, I mean, these are not religious things to do. In fact, religion goes a little berserk over it, but she literally went to what was known as the Burning Man Festivals in the desert, I think near Las Vegas. It started in 2003 and there were at one meeting there were 85,000, listen to this lawless, young people. 85,000. So what does Cindy do? She starts a booth of dream interpretation and other things. Tell me about what you would do in these tents.

CINDY: Well, the whole city comes up overnight it seems like, and it's for a 10 day experience of free expression lifestyle. There's a lot of artists and there are a lot of people out there that actually used to be in church, but they didn't fit. They were the creatives. The whole city's made up of theme camps. We created our own theme camp called the Freedom Lounge because he who the son sets free is free indeed. We wanted the spirit of the Lord to be very, very present. We told the Holy Spirit, "You can do anything you want to do that you can't do in church." We invited people to come with a menu board. We said our first menu item was organic restart, welcome to your new life.

SID: You're speaking their language-

CINDY: Yes.

SID: But our meaning.

CINDY: That's right, and we have the real deal. We have the Creator, the one who...

SID: But I have to tell you, you're just one person. How do you get so many people that can do these things? Can read people's mail? Can do dream interpretation? All these are gifts.

CINDY: Yeah.

SID: You can learn, teach them.

CINDY: Oh yes. Well, the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy, so he's resident on the inside of us and we need to earnestly desire the best gifts, especially that we would prophesy. This is just one of the prophetic gifts is that operates through the prophetic realm where we give them a word of knowledge. We do a thing called organic root recovery, original root recovery—

SID: What's that?

CINDY: It's identity recovery. We tell them who God made them to be before they went all these other directions.

SID: Oh, that is so wonderful.

CINDY: And God would show us what He made them to be.

SID: Tell me one person that comes to mind that you shared with.

CINDY: A man came in who was Iranian and he told us that his family was in government so we knew that he was Muslim. We don't have anything on our tent about God or Jesus or anything because we don't want to wall them up, we just want the language. God told us, "Identify me by my attributes instead of by my name." We said, "Come and get the shame-taker, mercy, truth, ancient one, all these things." He came in, he wanted a spiritual reading and we said, "Well, sit down in the chair and you ask the spirit of truth to come."

SID: Rather than Holy Spirit, you say Spirit of truth.

CINDY: Spirit of truth.

SID: That's the another name for the Holy Spirit.

CINDY: That's right and he did. By invitations said, "Spirit of truth, come." Then he went into a trance. That began to bother me a little bit, because I was like, "I'm not sure about this," so I got behind him and began to pray in the Spirit.

CINDY: He began to shake and cry. I said, "What do you see?"

CINDY: He said, "I see light." Then he began to weep sobbing, weep.

CINDY: I said, "What do you see?"

CINDY: He said, I see Jesus.

CINDY: We said, "Embrace the one who's revealing himself to you." He got born again that moment. It reminded me of many Muslims, how many people are coming to the Lord through their dreams, that Jesus is showing up in their dreams.

SID: You can teach people—

CINDY: Yes.

SID: How to understand the language of dreams.

CINDY: Yes. Mm-hmm (affirmative).

SID: Tell me real quick, one quick story, how about the woman with the scars?

CINDY: Yes. She was a cutter. A woman came into our camp. She was from a different country and at Burning Man, they come from all over the world, and she had scars all up and down her arms. We found out that she had been abused since she was three by her family members, by other people around her. She had so much pain, she just would cut, and we find this to be true a lot. So we asked her, "Would you like to have a brand new start? Would you like an organic restart? Welcome to your new life."

CINDY: She said yes and so the person working with her took oil and rubbed it on her skin and asked for the spirit of truth and the creator and the healer to heal her and to cause her to understand the power of God. She went to the bathroom, she came back about 30 minutes later and all of her scars were gone, every one of them. She was hysterical. She was crying and laughing at the same time. She'd never seen anything like that. We said, "This is Jesus. This is Jesus. He is the healer."

SID: That's outrageous. She went to these Burning Man, then she goes to these adult pornographic conventions. Tell me about the pastor's daughter that walked up to you when you had a booth there.

CINDY: Yes, the Lord had said, "If you put your finger on the pulse of culture, I will bring you the encounters." I didn't want to go, you need to know, I didn't want go into, into...

SID: I can understand.

CINDY: I didn't want to go in there. But God said, "There's people that are praying for these people, some of the people, and I need a volunteer."

CINDY: I said, "Well, this is upsetting. I've never been in anything like this before."

CINDY: God said, "I've seen it. I've already seen, I." He said, "You're seated with me in heavenly places, so just look at what I tell you to look at. Look at the person, look at the heart, and I'll give you the words to say." We ran into, again, we were directed by God at that time, and we ran into a girl and she was highlighted to me once again. I said, "Have you had a dream in," and she told us a dream and then she volunteered the information.

CINDY: She said, "I'm a pastor's daughter."

CINDY: I said, "Oh, you're a PK." Then it hit her. I said, "The unconditional love doesn't fail. God's not left you. He's never going to leave you. He's never going to forsake you. He loves you right where you are, but you are not called for this. You are not meant to be here. This is not your destiny. It's not your future."

CINDY: She started crying and she was undone. Then one of the people with me "saw" her eating a pickle and I thought, "Well, go ahead and give the word of knowledge," and she started crying even more when that word was given. She pulled out a picture of her wallet and there was her father, the pastor and her eating pickles. She said, "That's our connection."

SID: People are watching, they'll say, "That's not me. I can't do what she's doing," well, you're not supposed to do it, but God has something new. Tell them about it.

CINDY: Yes. God's giving us new supernatural boldness. We're going to recognize our authority that Jesus gave us.

SID: And it may not be what you're doing.

CINDY: No.

SID: But it'll be what they're creating.

CINDY: It's what they're created to do. Every one of us have a different assignment. We're now moving into these assignments and what God opening up for us. The main thing that will keep us back is fear, but perfect love casts out fear. Then we can go and we can fulfill the Great Commission into all the world and see people come in and get born again and get saved and rescued.

SID: Cindy, pray for people to feel God, experience God, and be healed in one minute.

CINDY: Okay.

CINDY: Father, I just want to thank you right now that your presence is going into every home and everyone that's listening right now. I thank you, Jesus, that you are the restorer of all things. I thank you, God, that you're always working all things together for good, that you are behind the scenes working, and I thank you, Jesus, right now for the Holy Spirit filling every home. Dreams begin to activate in your life and in your children and in your family's lives. That you're going to begin to experience God on a new level. You're going to see Him for yourself, you're going to surrender your old life for a brand new one, and God's going to wipe away the slate giving you a completely total new start. I thank you for the restoration that is happening right now with your kids, with your children. I see children coming back. I see them saying, "I'm sorry," and coming back and running back to your home. I just thank you, Jesus, for doing that right now.
